On October 28, the 18th Annual California on Location Awards (COLA) recognized talented film and television location professionals at the historic Huntington-Langham hotel in Pasadena. The COLAs are an annual flagship event created by the Film Liaisons In California Statewide
(FLICS), a nonprofit organization of regional film commissions that promote and support California's film and television production industry. The celebration highlighted the best of the best when it comes to scouting and managing the California locations that are ultimately seen on television and the big screen. In addition, various governmental sectors of federal, state and local public employees were recognized for their valuable services while facilitating California location filming in their jurisdictions.

Over 500 entertainment industry professionals were in attendance to enjoy a gorgeous outdoor reception with a live band and delicious hors d'oeuvres. Once inside, guests were delighted to find an elaborate candy bar that included everything from freshly popped popcorn to decadent cream-filled finger cakes. Host Lorenzo Lamas charmed the crowd with his tasteful humor during the